MAKE AI TEXT READ HUMAN

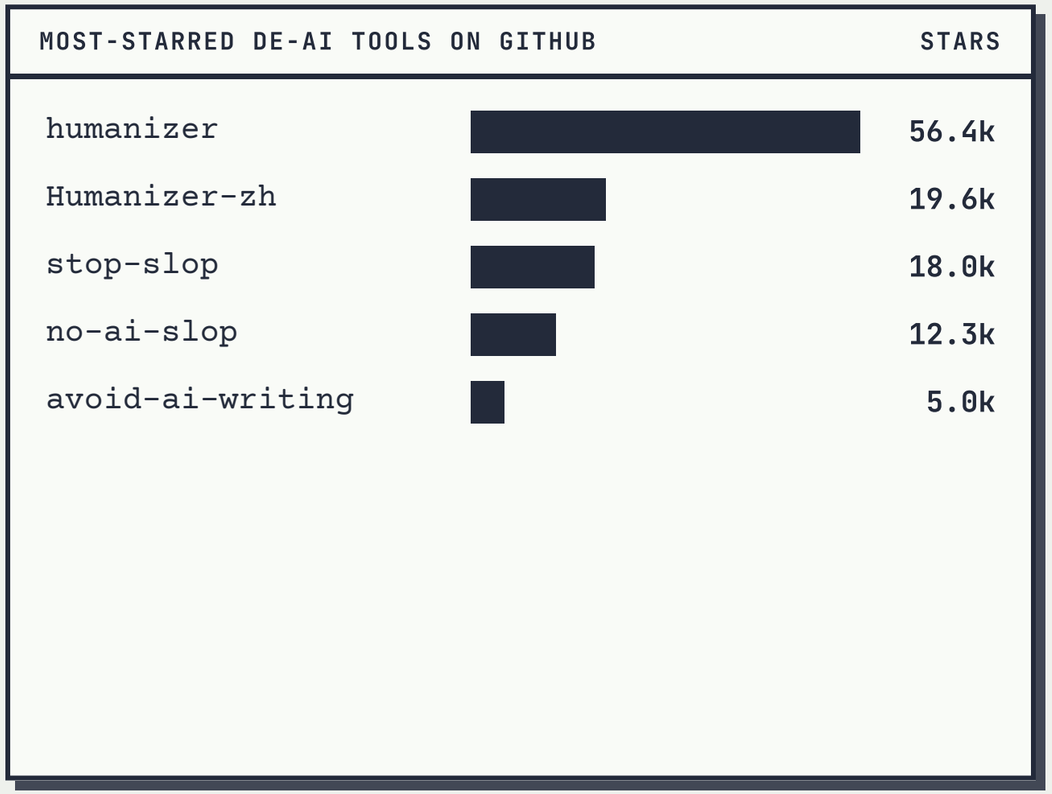

"Build an app and a SKILL.md that deClaude AI-generated content so no one can tell it is AI: no em dashes, fewer adjectives, etc."

our bar: would a person reading it notice? AI detectors were never the target.

RESEARCH

WE READ 21 REPOS FIRST

WORD LISTS ARE GOING STALE

Wikipedia's field guide now files ~~em dash overuse~~ under "historical indicators". Models learned to avoid the famous words.

THE TOOLS BREAK THEIR OWN RULES

stop-slop bans em dashes. Its own example output: "Speed, quality, cost—pick two."

DETECTORS STILL CATCH THEM

A blind test of humanizer: readers preferred the rewrite 16 times out of 16, yet AI detection only fell from 100% to 98.6%.

0 / 32 tells in Claude's own drafts were "AI words". The top offender was bold lead-ins (11), then groups of three (6). The tells have moved from words to structure.

THE RULEBOOK

1. No em dashes. Ever.
2. Add no facts.
3. Keep every fact, list item and lesson.
4. Keep the genre.
5. Don't swap one tell for another.
6. Cut more than you add.
7. Keep the writer's voice and spelling.
8. Every sentence with content needs a counterpart.

BEFORE

~~Nestled in the heart of~~ Bandra on Hill Road, our cafe ~~boasts a truly vibrant, welcoming, and cozy atmosphere with just~~ 12 tables.

HUMAN-ISH

AFTER

Our cafe is on Hill Road in Bandra and has 12 tables.

↳ the adjectives go. the 12 tables stay.

ALL 16 BEFORE/AFTER EXAMPLES PASS OUR OWN DETECTOR. WE TEST THAT ON EVERY CHANGE.

UNDER THE HOOD

HOW IT WORKS

SCAN
24 detectors run in your browser and count the tells.

REWRITE
A free AI model rewrites, with SKILL.md as its rulebook.

Lost numbers? Dropped sentences? Cut off mid-line? Tells left?

REPAIR
One second pass, only when a hard rule broke.

SHOW
Side by side, every edit numbered and explained.

GROQ → GEMINI → OPENROUTER

Free tiers, chained. When one runs out of quota, the next takes over. Most rewrites: 2 to 6 seconds.

CAN YOU TELL?

O CLAUDE'S ORIGINAL
Unedited, from plain prompts.

R DECLAUDE REWRITE
The same piece after the app.

H HUMAN-WRITTEN
Teammates, same prompts, no AI.

Two forms, so nobody reads two versions of the same piece. Each classmate reads 10 short pieces and answers: person or AI? and how sure, 1 to 5.

CALLED "AI" BY CLASSMATES	N = WAITING

RESULTS PENDING

Real classmates only. The numbers go here once the forms close.

TAKEAWAYS

WHAT WE LEARNED

A CLEAN SCORE CAN HIDE A BAD EDIT

Early runs scored near zero while dropping a deadline's reason and a product's care instructions. So the app now checks facts, along with tells.

FAST MODELS CUT CORNERS

Groq answers in seconds but dropped facts until we added sentence checks. One model stopped mid-sentence; we test for that too.

FREE TIERS ARE FRAGILE

Gemini allows 20 requests a day per model, Groq 8,000 tokens a minute. A chain of providers keeps the app up.

LIMITS

Detectors tuned for English · formatting isn't kept on upload · a sentence full of tells can be cut whole, even when it held a real thank-you.

BUILT WITH AI

Claude Code (Opus 5.5) for research, code and tests · Groq, Gemini and OpenRouter free tiers run the rewrites · full log in docs/ai-log.md.
